Message from Mr. Ohshiro

Gearing Up for Enagic Global Convention 49th Anniversary & CEO Birthday Celebration in June

Some people celebrate their birthday all week or all month. My birthday is on March 17, and I will mark the occasion with my wife Yaeko and our children, but I prefer to celebrate with you on a much bigger scale in June when the Enagic Global Convention returns to E8PA in Okinawa. On my home island in Japan, we'll also celebrate the company's 49th anniversary. Since we haven't hosted an Enagic Global Convention since 2019, I'm working hard with our team to make sure this event's programming is particularly inspiring and memorable.

Since we don't have venues large enough to accommodate all of the active Independent Distributors who are interested in attending the convention from across the world, we're giving you several opportunities to earn spots. Distributors can qualify through accumulated sales production/points from February 1 - April 30. We're also running daily sales contests through the end of April. Results will be used to determine who will be eligible to attend.

Interim results, total participants and minimum requirements will be available to view on the Distributor Support Portal. Check the DSP for more details. If you earn your spot and receive an invitation, I'll see you at E8PA in June.

We'll also announce more Enagic Global Convention event details through our website, social media channels and branch offices in the coming weeks so people can book their trips.

Thank you all for your hard work and dedication in sharing Kangen Water®, Ukon and Anespa with the world while striving for True Health. Our success is only possible together.

In June, I once again look forward to seeing your faces in-person and experiencing the unique energy that can only come from an Enagic Global Convention. In the meantime, drink plenty of Kangen Water®, which I enjoy even more than birthday cake.

Hironari Ohshiro
Enagic Founder and CEO

Mr. Ohshiro Builds a Lasting Legacy with Enagic

Hironari Ohshiro turns 82 years old this month on March 17. We can all gather important lessons and motivation from his life story and career development. He overcame incredible odds and continues to build an impressive legacy with Enagic that extends beyond Kangen Water®. The following excerpts are from the book Quenching the Thirst for Global Success, the Success Story of Hironari Ohshiro. Toshio M. (2015). This biography is a must-read for Independent Distributors. It is available in English, Chinese, Italian, French, Spanish and Japanese. Contact your local branch office for details.

“Ohshiro is one of six siblings; one of his older brothers died of illness, and his other older brother and one of his younger sisters both died in the war. Ohshiro only just managed to scrape through the conflict with his life. His older sister, Hisako Kawabata, and his younger sister, Kinuko, still live happily in Okinawa to this day, close to where they all grew up.”

“Ohshiro’s home lay inside the coastal road. It was a small rural house, part of a village called Sedake. This tiny hamlet today enjoys relative prosperity by growing turmeric.”

“Ohshiro’s family was poor, like most others at the time. They were self-sufficient, growing what they could on a small farm. They had nothing to trade for money. It was a hand-to-mouth existence, each day a struggle to get to the next. There was no hope of saving for the future.”

“Ohshiro sees this humble home as both the starting point of his own history and the starting point for the globalization of Enagic. He even keeps this home as his official address, despite owning homes in Tokyo and Los Angeles. For it was from this tiny structure that Ohshiro crawled, then toddled, then walked towards the challenges of life which lay ahead.”

“Eventually, Ohshiro would leave his village in Mount Yambaru and make his way to Naha, then Tokyo, then Los Angeles, then further onward to cities all across the world, introducing Kangen Water®, the idea of ionized water, wherever he went. On the way, his entrepreneurial spirit and his determination to quench his thirst for global success, would be tested. But he would struggle onward through the storm, pushing forward towards expansion and success.”

“Ohshiro got word that his father was in critical condition and immediately headed back to Nago. Once home, he started to work in the village office while taking care of his father. He worked in the tax collection department for seven years... He continued to dream, and eventually his desire for challenge would see him leave the village, once again, this time for good. But life is not always all bad. His return from Tokyo to the village meant that he could reconnect with his childhood friend, Yaeko. She soon became his wife.”

“Ohshiro once again moved to the mainland, this time to take up an accountancy position in Tokyo. He was planning to become a certified public accountant but the flames that fired his entrepreneurial spirit still burned brightly. The young couple had quietly started to dream big.”

“Ohshiro managed to find himself a job, but before long he was transferred to Osaka. He had always thought that he needed to be in Tokyo to see his dream come true...Waiting for him in Osaka was a man he did not yet know: Mr. Gushiken, President of the Sony sales branch in Osaka. Ohshiro’s contact with President Gushiken was transformational: it would bring enough good fortune to drown out all of the difficulties he had suffered thus far.”

“Spurred on by President Gushiken’s timely advice, Ohshiro began to dream a new dream: one in which the economic success of Okinawa brought economic success to him, too. So he established Sigmac Japan.”

“Sigmac Japan became an affiliated Sony sales retail store and sold a variety of products: Sony home electronics and home entertainment products, even Sony brand cosmetics. Sales were positive as the economy grew. The company quickly expanded.”

“Sony introduced the Betamax videocassette magnetic tape recording format to the consumer market in 1975, while Matsushita launched the VHS format at around the same time. The Betamax format piggybacked on the strong reputation of Sony by promising high-quality imaging, to which Matsushita responded with the more reasonably priced VHS format. The market chose to go with the cheaper option, meaning that Sony lost out. The impact of the loss was felt throughout the whole of Sony, not just its video deck business. For Ohshiro, previously so successful that he had been invited on a business trip to America, the shock was so great that he was forced to close down his entire company. It was a hard lesson to learn for the young entrepreneur.”

“Yaeko, his wife, worked in a cafe, sometimes long into the night, to try and repay some of their debts. Ohshiro, too, threw himself into work, refusing to feel defeated.”

“In 1988, a seminar on Kangen Water® and its health benefits was held in Tokyo by a medical professor. An acquaintance recommended that they go along and listen, so Ohshiro agreed, reluctantly, to accompany him. At first, Ohshiro was skeptical— whatever this “Kangen Water®” that the professor was talking about, surely water was just water, you drank as much as you needed, and that was it. As the seminar progressed, however, Ohshiro began to realize that Kangen Water® was more than just the “ordinary” water that the Ministry of Health and Welfare told the people of Japan to drink. As he listened to the professor talk, he started to calculate in his head. Who could supply the machinery, what was the market scope, who would be the target customers. Here was the moment of Enagic’s birth, in the incubator of Ohshiro’s mind.”

“Enagic is the new name for his old company, Sigmac Japan, and the fundamental principle for this new company remains network sales. Customers are called “distributors.”

“The eight point system is the source of Ohshiro’s “magic power.” Some have even called it genius. It’s a system of compensation that nobody else has managed to replicate.”

“Ohshiro’s retirement is still a long way off. For the next ten or twenty years, his main responsibility as the owner of Enagic is to foster successors who can take over the company once he does retire.”

Singapore Distributor Profile

Susie Tan

6A2-3

6A2-3 Susie Tan built a career in the corporate world, primarily focusing on sales and marketing. The lifelong Singapore resident never considered herself an entrepreneur or pursued direct sales until she learned about Kangen Water® and Enagic.

“Initially, we thought it was all about selling,” Susie says. “Then we realized it has to do with mindset, habits and leadership to build a structurally strong business by duplicating. All of us with limited time on earth, we were conditioned to work for money with zero leveraging. What do we really want out of this life?” It was important for Susie’s life to involve Independent Distribution in pursuit of True Health.

Susie discovered Kangen Water® through 6A May Chee and 6A2 Alan Chee. She sold her first Kangen Water® ionizer to a church mate who didn’t end up becoming a fellow distributor, but still recommended her to several business contacts who also became users.

Susie patterns her approach as an Independent Distributor after Top Gun pilots, who were trained to communicate using the acronym BLUF, which stands for Bottom Line Up Front. As Susie says, “As time is of the essence flying at high speed, every split-second counts.”

Susie imparts this sense of urgency with her downline in regular team meetings, training sessions and individual coaching opportunities. She also shares a holistic perspective, PALMS, which she learned from Philippines based pastor Peter Tan-Chi.

P - Perspective

A - Accountability

L - Love

M - Mission

S - Strategy

Furthermore, she encourages team members to challenge established preconceived notions based on limited information. “What is the shape of a watermelon? Most people will say round, oval, etc,” Susie says. “Has anyone seen a square watermelon? Yes, in Japan they have square watermelon and this is conditioning to maximize storage space.”

In a similar vein, society has taught us to prioritize earning money in exchange for our freedom. “For the longest time, we thought this is the norm as everyone is doing the same,” Susie says. This relentless pursuit for more resources is rooted in concerns for health, children, and retirement, among other factors. PALMS is her response to these deeply ingrained beliefs. She’s found Independent Distribution to be a solution with fewer tradeoffs.

“We wish all of you an amazing life’s journey with Enagic,” Susie says. “As the saying goes, if you are on a tall building or mountain surely the view and feelings are so different up here. We will see you at the top!”

United States Distributor Profile

Minh Lu
6A2-3

6A2-3 Minh Lu grew up in a large family with four siblings in Vietnam and relocated to the United States 30 years ago. He currently lives in Virginia and has enjoyed a varied worklife. His upbringing has shaped his career and outlook in meaningful ways. He says, “I am the youngest child in the family, but always have thoughts about how to make my life and family better.”

He started in the restaurant business as a busboy and worked his way up to a bartender with a popular restaurant. After accumulating over 10 years of experience, Minh opened his first restaurant in the early 2000s, pursuing a more entrepreneurial and independent path. “My work grew so I opened more businesses, not only restaurants but also nail salons for family owners.”

Minh discovered Enagic through 6A2-4 Anh Mai Le and was impressed by the possible benefits. He was also ready for a change. “After a period of research and learning, I decided to give myself a chance,” he says. “I’ve gone to places I’ve never been to to share Kangen Water®.”

“Difficulties and even refusals don’t discourage me,” he says. “With the motto of Enagic’s CEO, Mr. Ohshiro, ‘Change your water, change your life,’ I decided to share it with everyone.”

He made his first sale to 6A2-6 Diem La, who purchased that Kangen Water® ionizer and has gone one to become a powerhouse downline. Minh has continued to grow his network, which now encompasses nearly 60,000 people and spans 55 countries.

Minh majored in Economics in college and previously worked in restaurant systems and operated nail salons. Despite his diverse resume, Minh describes his experience as an Independent Distributor as “totally different,” adding, “It is necessary to learn about water expertise and learn about building systems for those who want to work with Enagic.”

Minh has been so satisfied with his experience and newfound freedom that he sold all of his restaurants and nail salons to focus exclusively on Independent Distribution.

Minh’s goals for the future include ranking up to 6A2-4 in six months. He will also travel the world to support his downline with a robust training and event schedule. As Minh says, “I love traveling and helping people.”

Enagic (Malaysia) Sdn Bhd Hosts Special Year-End Celebration

On December 12, Enagic Malaysia supported a special year-end celebration that featured speeches from top leaders and high tea service within The Spread, a restaurant located at The Gardens Hotel in Kuala Lumpur. The event's purpose was to commemorate the hard work and commitment from Independent Distributors who've built their business while celebrating Enagic team members who previously won the Daily 8-Point Global Accelerator Contest.

Independent Distributors like 6A6-4 Chin Shaw Fung, 6A2-4 Alfred Chan and 6A5-4 Zahid Salleh & Norli Razmi attended the event and shared inspirational words that reignited passions for their colleagues and audience members from the extended Enagic family.

6A7-6 Sam Sia described "the beauty of Enagic," adding, "We are all here with no limit."

6A3-5 Gary Gan said, "Even if this is a small event, it is good for us to reach everybody closely."

6A5-6 Cora Loh remarked, "We cannot be successful without helping others. Teamwork plays a significant role to be successful."

Enagic Malaysia Embraces Abundance of Prosperity for Lunar New Year

Lunar New Year is the most important social and economic holiday for billions of people around the world. It is one of the most important cultural celebrations for Malaysians. 2023 is the Year of Rabbit, and Enagic Malaysia has always held a Lunar New Year celebration that signifies a prosperous year ahead.

This celebration, named “Abundance of Prosperity,” took place on January 31. Enagic Malaysia’s branch office welcomed more than 150 Independent Distributors, leaders, family members and new prospects.

The event began with 6A2-4 Alfred Chan leading the crowd in singing an uplifting Chinese New Year song. A traditional lion dance ceremony ushered in luck and good fortune. High energy continued all event long.

The crowd moved to the seminar room, where Branch Manager Shermin Lam shared some global highlights and gave a heartwarming speech. Emcee 6A3-2 Nicolas Tan then recognized the 2022 Top Sales Achievers (Malaysia sales only) to help motivate valued guests to perform at their best in 2023.

Attendees gained valuable knowledge from speakers during several seminars. Enagic Malaysia also welcomed leaders in the audience to share insights and secrets to success as Independent Distributors. Lunar New Year may have been the reason for everybody to gather, but this was more than a celebration.

Enagic Singapore Celebrates Chinese New Year With Training Sessions and Lou Hei Toss

On February 4, Enagic Singapore celebrated Chinese New Year with Independent Distributors, local leaders and family members in a gathering that radiated a “high vibration of positivity” at the branch office. Event programming included training sessions, sharing and networking with a heavy dose of revelry.

Here’s a rundown of the three main presentations:

- Branch Manager Kent Liew conducted Ukon training and answered questions for distributors.
- 4A Daphne Sun provided tips on how to keep the selling process interesting.
- 6A5-5 Bernard Chan stressed the importance of persistence and continuing to upgrade knowledge.

When it came time to eat, participants tossed lou hei, a colorful Chinese New Year’s salad from Singapore featuring raw fish and vegetables that signals good fortune. In Chinese culture, it is popularly believed that the higher the toss, the better your prospects and fortune in the year ahead.

The event concluded with a lion dance performance. Lions symbolize wisdom and power in Chinese culture and lion dancers are supposed to bring prosperity and good fortune to the host.

After these rousing speeches, Enagic Singapore honored rank up and contest winners, including 4A Tan Lee Soon Nelson and 6A Mabelle Goh, who earned S$1,000.

To generate even more excitement, organizers dispersed lucky draw prizes throughout the evening, handing them out onstage. The grand prize winner took home an Anespa DX machine. Overall, an electrifying atmosphere pervaded the venue all night, a testament to the momentum that Independent Distributors have built in Singapore over the past decade.

Kangen World Showroom Celebrates Opening in Hanoi

On January 10, Ms. Dang Thuy Linh and Ms. Lien Nguyen presided over the opening of a Kangen World Showroom in Hanoi's Hà Đông district. A colorful yellow arch welcomed Independent Distributors, leaders, family and friends to the modern facility just east of the Đáy River. Speakers appeared at a podium on a colorful outdoor stage, which also hosted lion dancers, light pyrotechnics, and a ribbon-cutting ceremony. Well-wishers brought flowers to support the continued success for Kangen Water®, Ukon and Anespa in Vietnam.
